RUSS FIELD MARSHAL SPEEDS TO FRONT

BURGLARS LOOT LUMBER OFFICE OF CASH, CHECKS

Edison Avenue Firm's Safe Broken Into Despite Tear Gas Charge

MONEY LOST TOTALS $60

All Windows And Doors Of Company Found Intact By Police

Breaking into the office of the Circleville Lumber Company, 156 Edison Avenue, Thursday night, an unknown number of burglars rifled the vault safe and escaped with $60 in cash and $335 in checks.

A large section around the combination had been cut from the door by a chisel and punch and the door forced open. By breaking the combination an automatic tear gas tube had been set off. This apparently did not deter the safe crackers who continued the looting.

Tom O. Gilliland, manager of the company, left Thursday night for Yuma, Arizona and is unaware of the theft. Assistant Manager C. W. Fullen reported the robbery to the police.

No fingerprints were found by the police, nor has the means of entrance to the office been established. All windows and doors were found intact. The office bore heavy traces of the tear gas Friday.

"The theft is protected by insurance," Mr. Fullen said, "but we thought that the installation of tear gas would halt the series of petty robberies from which we have suffered."

The lumber company is located in a rather open section of the city south of the Norfolk and Western Railroad tracks.

This marks Circleville's first major theft since the robbery of the Circleville Savings Bank last December 5.

Police Chief W. F. McCrady said that burglars broke into the bulk station office of the Standard Oil Co., South Pickaway Street, Thursday night by shattering a window, but that a checkup showed that nothing was taken.

Two thefts in southeast garages in the last few days have been reported to the police department. Glenn Hines, 153 Walnut Street, informed police that a battery and automobile robe were stolen from his car. Forrest McCune, 212 Walnut Street, said that a 15-plate Willard battery had been stolen from his car.

OBEZ AUTOIST INJURED IN DUVALL ROAD CRASH

Roy Everett of Obetz was seriously hurt and his wife suffered a deep scalp wound Thursday at 3 p. m. when their car and one driven by Penny Kilginsmith of near Duvall collided at a road intersection east of Duvall.

Everett, taken to St. Francis Hospital, Columbus, in the Schlegel ambulance, suffered from a compound fracture of the right leg and a severed artery in the leg. Kilginsmith was not believed to be hurt.

Anti-Anglo-U. S. Ire Grows In Japan

European Bulletins

RIGA, Latvia — The Latvian steamer Everene today was reported torpedoed in the North Sea and its crew rescued. The reports gave no indication of the nationality of the submarine which sank the 4434-ton vessel.

LONDON — The London Daily Telegraph reported today that the military geographical institute in Prague has been ordered to prepare 35,000 copies of 35 large-scale maps covering Hungary and 64 maps covering Rumania to be delivered to the German army by February 15.

LONDON — Great Britain's ration of bacon will be doubled to eight ounces per person per week effective Monday, it was announced today. The rationing of bacon has been in force for only a month. At the beginning of the year, butter and bacon were restricted to four ounces per person weekly.

BERLIN — The official German war communiqué confirmed today that one British Bristol-Blenheim scouting plane was shot down yesterday when it attempted to reach the Ruhr district. "There were no worthwhile events on the Western Front," the bulletin added. "The German air force continued its reconnoitering activities."

NEW YORK — Germany's ambassadors to Rumania, Hungary, Bulgaria, Yugoslavia and Greece have been called home to Berlin for instructions, according to a British Broadcasting Corporation short wave broadcast picked up by the Columbia Broadcasting System in New York today.

JAPS AND ITALY JOIN TO COMBAT SPREAD OF REDS

ROME, Jan. 26 — With the support and collaboration of Japan, Italy has given support to a movement for extension of the anti-Comintern pact throughout the Balkan states, it was learned in diplomatic circles today.

The movement is not directed against the Soviet Union itself, it was learned, but against the spread of Communism and "pan-Slavism" into the Balkans.

Well-informed circles indicated that Germany is interested in this action and is lending moral if not outright support to the plan.

Japan has taken the role of intermediary between Italy and the Balkan nations to prepare the groundwork. The plan is expected to reach fruition at the forthcoming conference of the Balkan Entente nations—Turkey, Yugoslavia, Rumania and Greece—in Bucharest.

There were reliable indications that the Vatican is lending staunch moral support to the negotiations in line with its traditional efforts to stem the spread of Communism in Europe.

U. S. Legation in Denial That German March On Scandinavians is Feared

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 26 — The United States legation in Stockholm today denied a report in the London Daily Mail that "German troop concentrations" were responsible for a circular letter sent to American residents advising their departure from Sweden if convenient.

The letter was anything but alarming in nature, it was said, and made no specific mention of Germany or any other country.

Despite sensational reports from the European continent, Sweden has no fears of a German invasion, official quarters said. They attributed the legation's letter to the rapidly worsening transportation facilities across the Atlantic.

Similar communications have been sent out periodically by United States envoys in other capitals since the outbreak of hostilities.

EXTREME COLD LEAVES SOUTH

North Central Area Still Suffering; Peach Crop In Illinois Ruined

CHICAGO, Jan. 26 — The abnormal cold wave which has gripped most of the nation since early in the week retreated slowly today from its southernmost outposts but held on tenaciously in the north central states, where temperatures continued to range as low as 19 degrees below zero.

A slight moderation of the extreme cold, which caused widespread crop damage in the South and Midwest, occurred in most western and southern areas. Temperatures also rose in the northern Rocky Mountain region.

The amazing onslaught of winter continued, however, with freezing weather the rule along a line extending southward into Central Missouri, thence down to most of the Gulf Coast from Texas to Northwestern Florida.

One of the greatest crop losses was reported yesterday by Dr. M. J. Dorsey of the University of Illinois, who said Illinois' $2,000,000 peach crop probably has been wiped out by the prolonged cold wave. He said the sub-zero weather has destroyed dormant peach buds which would have produced next summer's crop.

Winter vegetable crops from the Carolinas to Florida also suffered heavy damage, while in Florida citrus growers hoped to thwart the cold's affect on their orchards by keeping smudge fires burning.

'CITY OF FLINT' DOCKS AT HOME PORT SATURDAY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 — The semi-final chapter of the saga of the City of Flint was written today as the wandering freighter neared American shores again for the first time in four months.

Two officials of the United States lines, owners of the vessel, went aboard her at sea off the Virginia Capes to pay off the forty crew members—their first day since the Flint moved out of New York harbor on October 3, bound for North Atlantic European ports.

The vessel is slated to dock in Baltimore tomorrow morning. Announcement that U. S. line officials had gone aboard the vessel was made in Washington by treasury department officials.

Maritime law requires payment of salaries before discharge papers are issued.

Tonight, the freighter, whose adventures included seizure by a German prize crew, will anchor off Sandy Point in Chesapeake Bay preparatory to steaming into quarantine about nine o'clock tomorrow morning to be met by U. S. customs officials.

CROWD WITNESSING NEW MOVIE GETS ADDED ACT

CHICAGO, Jan. 26 — The Chicago premiere of "Gone With The Wind" last night was more exciting than had been expected.

A cigaret thrown into a refuse box outside the Oriental Theatre started a fire, and some of the smoke was drawn into the theatre through an air intake.

Before an announcement had been made explaining there was no danger, about 300 persons had walked out.

LONDON, Jan. 26 — Frederick A. Sterling, United States minister to Sweden, has circularized all Americans there, urging their return to the United States, the London Daily Mail reported today from Stockholm.

Meant for Women, Children

The circular was meant especially for American women and children in Sweden, the dispatch said, adding that it was believed Swedish defense preparations and German troop concentrations toward the Baltic Sea were responsible for its distribution.

(In the United States it was pointed out that similar circulars have been addressed to Americans in Belgium, Holland, France, Britain and other European nations. It was considered probable that

SOLONS DECLARE F. D.'S NEW TAX BILL DEAD ISSUE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 — Congressional leaders admitted today that President Roosevelt's proposal for a $460,000,000 new tax bill was a "dead issue" in congress.

Foes of increased taxes were hoping that the current economy drive in congress and income tax collections in excess of treasury estimates, by reason of the general business upswing, would obviate the need for more revenue.

Serious doubt was expressed by one important Democratic leader, however, that congress could cut $460,000,000 from the President's $8,400,000,000 budget. The house has passed two departmental appropriations bills with reductions of $106,000,000 under budget recommendations. They were two of the largest regular appropriations bills that came before congress annually.

Whether tax receipts will go beyond treasury estimates will not be known until after the March 15 income tax collections are tabulated. The house plans and means committee ways to defer consideration of tax increases until after these collections are totaled.

House Majority Leader Rayburn today reiterated his belief that the people would be willing to pay some additional taxes to finance expansion of the nation's defenses.

THREATS HURLED AT CORONER IN PROBE OF DEATH

YOUNGSTOWN, Jan. 26 — Criticism of police methods in handling an investigation into the death of John P. Kane, Youngstown furniture dealer, brought threats of bodily harm today to Coroner David H. Hauser and the offer of a $1,000 bribe if Hauser would stay out of the investigation.

Kane was injured fatally during a fight in a downtown cafe on January 8. Hauser said he had received a telephone call threatening to harm him a short time after he was offered the $1,000 bribe.

He had publicly criticized handling of the arrest of Joseph Clark, 48, purchasing agent for a district steel company. Clark was charged with manslaughter and freed in $1,000 bond. Hauser demanded that Clark either be exonerated or charged with second degree murder.

Reported Plot On Envoy To China Scoffed At By Uncle Sam

By International News Service

International bickering, "face-saving" and fist-waving at least partly attributable to the European war spread to the Far East today as Japan nursed a rising resentment against Great Britain and the United States, which she suspected of combining in a pressure game against her.

The United States came into the picture with expiration today of the Japanese-American commercial treaty which was abrogated by the Washington government last summer.

The Tokyo government signaled the termination of the pact with a statement admitting its relations with America are "unstable" but asserting it does not intend to abolish "just and reasonable" occidental interests in China. But it was plain that Tokyo is as determined as ever on a "new order in East Asia."

The Nipponese anger against Britain which yesterday caused Japanese patriots to smash the windows of the British consulate in Tokyo apparently remained at white heat today.

Brit Steamer Stopped

In Shanghai it was revealed that a Japanese gunboat had sent two shots whizzing across the bow of a British steamer off Foochow, and had then sent a party of sailors aboard the British vessel in retaliation for the halting of the Japanese liner Asama Maru and removal of 21

WHEELER CITES EMPLOYMENT AS VITAL PROBLEM

COLUMBUS, Jan. 26 — Ranking unemployment above foreign affairs as America's No. 1 problem, U. S. Sen. Burton K. Wheeler (D) Montana, told the United Mine Workers convention today that national leaders of industry, agriculture and labor should unite to seek a program by which industrial democracy and economic and social security may be achieved.

"It should be clear to all," he said, "that if the United States permits itself to become engaged in the wars of Europe and Asia, there will be a blackout of American institutions — and possibly of democracy itself."

The Montana liberal Democrat ignored the boomlet launched in his behalf as a Democratic presidential possibility. Likewise, he ignored the implication that as the only national political figure invited to address the UMW convention, he might expect support for the nomination from that important labor group whose leader John L. Lewis, has broken openly with President Roosevelt and other Democrats mentioned as presidential timber.

Wheeler's only reference to his own political future was to reiterate that as a candidate for reelection to the senate in 1940 he pledged never to vote to send an American boy across the water to fight on foreign soil.

Russians Discover Vast Plot Against Three Soviet Chiefs

Stalin, Molotov And Voroshilov Named In Conspiracy, Rome Reports; Mass Arrests Being Made Throughout Ukraine Area

LONDON, Jan. 26 — Soviet secret police have discovered a vast conspiracy against Dictator Josef Stalin, Premier-Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov and War Commissar Klement E. Voroshilov, a Reuters (British) news agency dispatch from Rome stated today.

The dispatch credited the information to a broadcast by the Rome radio.

It said the Soviet authorities are carrying out mass arrests of high officials and military officers throughout the Ukraine.

More than 150 officers and high officials were reported to have been arrested at Kiev alone.

According to Reuters, the conspiracy report was said to have emanated from reliable sources at Kaunas, Lithuania.

Soviet Russia recently concluded mutual assistance pacts with Lithuania and other Baltic states.

Communist Flag Angers John L.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 26 — Columbus police and UMW officials today searched for two persons suspected of lowering the hammer and sickle flag of Communist Russia above the head of John L. Lewis as he was speaking over a nationwide radio network at the United Mine Workers of America convention.

Stage hands at Columbus auditorium where the golden jubilee convention is being held said two men reached the stage through a press room Wednesday night by posing as reporters. They were reported to have been carrying a banner rolled up.

Appearance of the flag caused a near-riot among UMW delegates and almost disrupted the broadcast. Lewis seemed unperturbed and went on with his speech with the statement:

"The United Mine Workers of America is an American institution. It has but one flag, and that is the Stars and Stripes."

"The United Mine Workers in the future, as in the past, will do as much or more to protect that flag and the free institutions that flourish under that flag as any cross section of American citizenship or anyone else who may proclaim their patriotic principles."

$200,000 DAMAGE FIXED IN BLAST AT HAZARD, KY.

HAZARD, Ky., Jan. 26 — Damage was estimated at close to $200,000 today from an explosion which wrecked the offices of the Kentucky and West Virginia Power Company yesterday, killing one person and injuring 24 others, two of them seriously. Joseph Curtin, 21, an office employee of the company, was killed.

R. L. Gordon, company district manager, blamed the explosion on natural gas which he said apparently had seeped into a basement well used for an air conditioning system.

Several automobiles parked in front of the building were wrecked, and nearby buildings and offices, including the First Baptist Church and a motion picture theatre, also were damaged.

'BIG TRAIN' IN POLITICS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 — Walter Johnson, the retired "big train" of the pitching mound, announced his candidacy today for the Republican nomination for congress in the sixth Maryland district. The incumbent is Rep. William D. Byron, a Democrat. Johnson entered small-scale politics in 1938 when he was the only Republican elected to the Montgomery County board of commissioners, an office he now holds. He lives on a farm in nearby Maryland.

Defenders Say Stalin's Men Killing Horses As Food Shortage Grows

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 26 — Indications of a Russian offensive in Finland on the largest scale yet attempted were seen here today in reports from Tallinn, Estonia, that Field Marshal Klementi Voroshiloff was en route to Leningrad.

These reports, said to have emanated from Moscow sources, claimed that the decision to force the issue in Finland was reached after a council of Red military leaders in the Kremlin.

HELSENKI, Jan. 26 — Two large bodies of Soviet troops attempting to break through the Finnish front lines north of Lake Ladoga were hammered back by desperately fighting Finns who inflicted heavy losses on the invaders, it was reported today.

The Reds launched their two-pronged attack on the Finnish centers of Kollanajoki and Aittokki in an unsuccessful attempt to break a trap placed by the Finns around a third Red army force at Kitelee.

According to military advice to the capital, the Soviets attacked with two powerful tank and infantry columns, but after repeated assaults were unable to break the Finnish defenses. The Russian force at Kitelee is reported almost surrounded by the Finns and facing possible annihilation unless it can extricate itself.

Hundreds of Russian soldiers were killed and wounded in bitter fighting near Kollanajoki and Aittokki, which are situated on their side of Kitelee.

In addition, the Soviet forces attempted to stage new advances west of Maerkaajarvi on the Salla Front and south of Petsamo on the Polar Front. Both attacks, which apparently were designed to draw the Finns from the battle front north of Lake Ladoga, were reported turned back.

F. D. R. EVADES REPLY TO QUERY ABOUT '40 PLANS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 — Press conference efforts to lead President Roosevelt into a discussion of 1940 politics proved absolutely futile today as he dodged all questions pertaining to the third term and the controversy over it.

When a reporter asked the chief executive to comment on the assertion of CIO Chief John L. Lewis that he would go down to "ignominious defeat" if he ran again, the President countered by asking whether anyone could give him any reason why he should respond to such a query.

Suggestions that comment by him would make "good copy" fell on deaf ears.

Similarly, the President dodged questions concerning his conference yesterday with Senator Vic Donahey of Ohio, who is expected to be in control of his state's delegation to the Democratic convention.

U. S. PEN WARDEN QUILTS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 — The Department of Justice today announced the resignation of Henry C. Hill as warden of the U. S. penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa. Hill, who has been warden at the government penal institution since July 1932, left the post to become superintendent of the New Pennsylvania reformatory at White Hill, the announcement said.

"Administration Has Done More For Labor Than Any Other"—Green

LEWIS AND CIO SCORED

Gratitude Expressed For Assistance Of Congress During Sessions

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 — President William Green of the American Federation of Labor stood on the record today with a warm defense of the New Deal administration which he claimed had done more for labor in the last seven years than had ever been done before.

Green's pledge of loyalty to the Roosevelt administration, delivered at a dinner in honor of Thomas J. Lyons, newly elected president of the State Federation of Labor, was a reply to Wednesday's attack by John L. Lewis, CIO leader, who predicted President Roosevelt would go down to "ignominious defeat" if he sought a third term.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: In a scathing attack on the National Labor Relations Board in Washington yesterday, Green charged before the house investigating committee that the NLRB "committed all the crimes in the calendar" to favor the CIO over the A. F. of L.)

Without naming names, Green denounced Lewis and the CIO as "ingrates" and singers of a "song of hate."

No Order of Ingrates

"We have not formed a royal order of ingrates in the American Federation of Labor," Green said. "We appreciate the service of friends, whether they be in the political or educational fields. Through the support of our political friends in this country the workers have made more progress in the last seven years than they ever did before."

"I can't understand how anyone possessing any understanding of the facts would say congress had failed us in the last seven years."

"As spokesman for the American Federation of Labor I wish to express our gratitude for its response to our call for enactment of this legislation."

Enforcement Of New Seed Law Begins In U. S. Feb. 5

COLUMBUS, Jan. 26—Enforcement of the new Federal Seed Act, effective February 5, "may seem cumbersome at first, but will not be difficult after dealers and growers become accustomed to requirements of the law," W. A. Davidson, Washington, D. C., charged with enforcement of the law for the U. S. Department of Agriculture, told 400 Ohio Seedsmen, analysts, representatives of the Farm Bureau, Grange and State Administrative officials at a conference here to plan Ohio compliance.

The conference, before which Director of Agriculture John T. Brown pledged full cooperation of the Ohio Department of Agriculture in efforts to enforce the law, was in charge of Paul Donley, Ashland, vice-president of the Ohio Seed Dealers Association.

The Federal Seed Act will provide methods of tracing every movement of agricultural seeds from the grower to the consumer, according to Mr. Davidson. "Dealers familiar with labeling requirements of the Ohio Seed Law can easily comply with the Federal Act by getting from the growers a statement of variety, if variety is claimed at the time of purchase, and by keeping samples and records of each lot purchased," said Mr. Davidson.

Records Necessary

"When shipping the seed for re-cleaning the seed must be labeled for processing purposes and samples both before and after processing may be kept. Also the general records of mixing, blending and bulking at the processing plant become a part of the complete records required. After processing the analysis statements as to purity, noxious weeds, germination, and date of test become part of the necessary information for interstate shipment. It is thus possible to trace back from the consumer to earth from Russian planes, according to Finnish reports.

Soldiers returning from the North Ladoga front claimed that the Russians in that sector were so short of food they were killing their horses for meat.

Unofficial reports said the Soviets have put 2,000 war planes into action over Finland. But with poor weather hampering the Russian air offensive, the Finnish government was reported to have ordered evacuation of 20,000 women and children from the Tornes Valley in middle Finland to Sweden.

Sir Walter Citrine, head of a British labor delegation now in Finland, declared meanwhile that Britain is increasing her aid to Finland. He added that British labor forces are exerting their influence at home to facilitate this aid.

The delegation will make a ten-day tour of the battle fronts and other Finnish areas.

Dr. Henri Vallotton, vice president of the National Council of Switzerland, arrived today to study the Finnish situation and report to the Swiss parliament.

Swedish Doctors Arrive

A delegation of Swedish Peasant Party leaders, accompanied by the largest Swedish medical service unit yet to volunteer for service in Finland, also arrived. The unit included 121 doctors, male nurses and other staff members.

However, a note of sadness hung over the Swedish volunteers who learned today of the death of the Swedish Volunteer Pilot S. Joquist, killed in action on the Finnish front.

There was little aerial activity today due to heavy snows on almost all sections of the front.

U. S. LEGATION DENIES FEARS

Sterling may have acted after being informed that Norway and Sweden were placing in effect provisions of their defense acts restricting ship facilities, thereby making it advisable for Americans to leave while accommodations are still available.)

The letter sent out by the American minister was quoted as saying:

"In view of the general situation in Europe, the minister invites all Americans living in Sweden who have not compelling reasons for remaining to consider the desirability of returning to the United States at their earliest convenience. The present situation is not immediately dangerous in Sweden, but nothing can be foretold of the future.

Facilities Limited

"It should be mentioned that very limited transportation facilities between Scandinavia and the United States exist at present and in an emergency it would be difficult to obtain accommodation.

"The next ship leaving Bergen, which is outside the combat area, is scheduled to sail March 1."

HEALTHIER REPORTS HIS ACTIVITIES IN JANUARY

Releasing the monthly report, Dr. A. D. Blackburn, county health commissioner noted that the county at the present time is free of quarantine and that communicable diseases have been checked.

Thirty-three chest cases were examined at the County Tuberculosis Dispensary and the two positive cases found are to be placed in a sanatorium.

Investigations were conducted at four schools and a communicable skin eruption that had hampered the pupils had been checked. Home visits for the month totaled 31.

Meanwhile, American authorities in Shanghai refused to become concerned over a supposed Chinese plot against American Ambassador Nelson T. Johnson, allegedly designed to embroil Japan still further with the Washington government.

In contrast to the relative calm in the war between Germany and the Anglo-French Allies, bitter fighting was reported in Finland, where it was reported that two columns of Russian troops attacking north of Lake Ladoga had been driven back with heavy losses.

The Reds, these advisers said, failed in an attempt to rescue another Red body of troops caught in a tightening Finnish trap at Kitelee.

The London Daily Mail, meanwhile, reported that the United States minister to Sweden had circularized all Americans there, urging them to return to the United States, evidently as a result of Swedish defense preparations and reported German troop concentrations toward the Baltic Sea.

110 LIVES LOST IN ORAZIO FIRE, ITALIANS CLAIM

ROME, Jan. 26.—The Italian ministry of communications reported to Premier Mussolini today that 110 persons including members of the crew are missing and probably were drowned in the burning of the Italian liner Orazio in the Mediterranean.

The ministry said an official investigation showed the missing passengers and crew members left the ship in three lifeboats which were lowered contrary to the order of the ship's captain.

CLIPPING BRINGS MEMORY OF RACE 28 YEARS AGO

Memories of days when horse race arguments were settled in the main thoroughfares of the city were brought back Friday when C. T. Tomlinson of Ashville came to The Daily Herald office carrying a clipping from a Herald of about 28 years ago.

It referred to a race in which Lufe Lanman, Mr. Tomlinson's uncle, ran Lady Banks.

Here's the account: "Uncle Lufe Lanman, owner of Lady Banks, an excellent trotting mare nearly old enough to vote, threw slush in the eyes of all comers on the snow course in East Main Street last Saturday afternoon.

"Uncle Lufe told the Herald that Lew Miller and Cary Short wouldn't give me any rest Saturday until I consented to bring the Lady to town. After I came they and their friends were sorry that they work me and the old girl up and pulled us away from the log fire."

The clipping continues by saying: "The racing was lively sport while it lasted and brought out a number of good ones."

THE GARDEN CLINIC

QUESTION: I am interested in evergreen barberries. Which ones would you recommend as being satisfactory?

ANSWER: Although all of the evergreen barberries have a tendency to be a little tender in severe winters, I believe you will find the following are satisfactory if they are planted away from the sweep of the wind in a more or less sheltered place. Berberis julianae is probably the showiest and most satisfactorily of those we have for Ohio.

A slightly smaller one, smaller leaved, finer twigged, is Berberis triacanthophora. In especially sheltered places in the southern part of the state, you may be able to grow one with holly-like leaves and gray undersurfaces, Berberis vesiculosa. This variety also is being grown in the vicinity of Cleveland where the tempering effect of the lake is felt.

QUESTION: We have just purchased a stucco house and I would like to plant some vines on it that will cling to the stucco. What would you recommend?

ANSWER: I have always felt that the loveliest vines for this purpose were the evergreen winter creepers. The fastest growing one of this group is Euonymus radicans coloratus which turns bronze-red during the winter. If you wish fruit and will plant two or more of them, you will find the so-called Evergreen Bitter-sweet, Euonymus radicans vegetus, will be very satisfactory. It stays a good green the year around. A smaller leaved form, where a slightly finer texture is desired, is the parent of the two, Euonymus radicans. Those living in the southern half of the state, especially if planted on the east or north side of the house, could use one of the various forms of English ivy.

Non-evergreen vines would include the common Boston ivy or its miniature form the geranium creeper, Ampelopsis lowi. This latter usually will not get above the first story. Another very nice vine for this purpose, although often a little difficult to get established, is the climbing hydrangea. Those in the southern counties of the state could use, in addition, the native cross vines which are found growing in some places along the Ohio River. This is Bignonia capreolata, which is evergreen with orange flowers much like its sister plant, the trumpet creeper.

QUESTION: We are having an argument in our club. What is the difference between holly and what you call Mahonia or Oregon holly grape?

ANSWER: Although most people think of holly as our native American holly with spiny-edged leaves, there are many different kinds, some with spiny-edged leaves, others with the spines such as the inkberry of the Michigan swamps, Ilex glabra. The American holly has a single leaf with just one part of the blade or leaf, whereas the Mahonia has a compound leaf with five or more leaflets composing the leaf. The American holly, of course, gets to be a tree 30 or 40 feet high, whereas the Mahonia will seldom get over four or five feet in height. The American holly has red berries but the Mahonia has blue.

QUESTION: Is there more than one kind of African violet?

ANSWER: Yes, there are a number of named varieties. Probably the most satisfactory of these is Blue Boy with darker flowers than the parent type. There is also Blue Boy Improved, Neptune, Viking and Admiral. These are among the more satisfactory varieties.

JUESTION: I am particularly interested in having some shrubs with red berries. Which ones would you recommend that I plant for this purpose?

ANSWER: In addition to the common Japanese barberry, I would suggest that you try the following: The Washington thorn, Crataegus cordata; the Chokeberry, Aronia arbutifolia; the American cranberry-bush, Viburnum dilatatum; Viburnum wright; Photinia serrulata; Cotoneaster dielsiana; Cotoneaster apiculata; and the Chenault coralberry, Symphoricarpos vulgaris.

QUESTION: Is it true that there is absolutely no way to acidify the soil after it is once alkaline?

ANSWER: This is not true. Any soil may be acidified. If you are in a hurry for the acidification use aluminum sulfate. If you are not in a hurry and have to continue acidifying it over a period of years, it may be a little safer to use powdered sulfur as the sulfur usually takes a season before it produces the necessary acidity. The amounts used would depend on the reaction of your soil which can be determined by a soil test. Your country agricultural agent can have this made for you.

QUESTION: What shrubs would you recommend for use in a hedge other than Japanese barberry?

ANSWER: There are a number of excellent shrubs that may be used for this purpose. I am giving the scientific names since you will be sure you are getting them: Rhamnus frangula, Berberis mentoriensis, Cornus paniculata, Prunus tomentosa, Viburnum tomentosum, Viburnum prunifolium, Physocarpus monogynus, Cydonia maulei, Crataegus cordata, Cornus mas. Besides these, the Ithaca privet, Amur River privet, Regal privet and Alpine currant.

QUESTION: Can you give me a list of vines I can plant along a wire fence?

ANSWER: You will find any of the various species and varieties of Clematis will do well, including Clematis paniculata, C. montana, C. jackmanni, C. henryi, and C. cocconia. You may also use wisteria, silver lace vine, and Japanese honeysuckle. If you wish an evergreen effect, use Euonymus radicans vegetus, or Euonymus radicans coloratus.

POLE MILITARY GROUPS RESIST

Secret Organizations Move Against Nazi Rule In Captured Territory

ANGERS, France, Jan. 26.—In one of his first acts after the installation of his government at the capital of the Polish Territory here, Premier Sikorski today revealed that secret Polish military organizations are still resisting the Nazi conquest of their country.

The revelation was coupled with an official memo from Sikorski to Premier Daladier in Paris denouncing German treatment of captives in Nazi areas of partitioned Poland. The communique slashed at "Nazi atrocities."

Reports in the Polish language newspaper printed for this extra-territorial 'state' in France, were presented to Sikorski cabinet officials for verification and censorship, and were returned unaltered to this correspondent with the simple statement that "Polish resistance continues, and will continue until the injustice done to the people has been rectified and our nation recreated."

Assassination Effort

Outstanding among the numerous reports of organized resistance in what was western Poland—resistance outcried by small groups of armed patriots obviously under a central command—is that of the attempt on the life of Greiser, formerly president of the Danzig Senate and now Nazi Statthalter in Posen Province.

The report brought to France by a Pole who recently escaped from German-occupied Poland via the Balkans, states that as Greiser was motoring towards Posen his car was attacked by five Polish nationalists who repeatedly fired upon it with revolvers. The armored car withstood the bullets, however, and a battle took place between Greiser's Nazi guards and the Poles.

Four of the Poles were killed, the fifth committing suicide after killing two Nazi guards. Greiser was not as much as scratched.

Guerrilla Warfare in Progress

Guerrilla warfare continues in all Nazi-held provinces, and sabotage work has been reported widely; many such reports being confirmed from Berlin directly. During one period of guerrilla fighting, a German colonel was killed as he left a private Polish home. Every member of that household was executed. Polish reports state, as the Nazis took revenge, the Polish groups thereupon adopted a new scheme, that of hiding the bodies of Nazi officers and soldiers killed in fighting.

The Sikorski communique to Daladier stated in part:

"No day passes without our receiving news of individual, or mass executions. Properties are pillaged and carried away; owners brutally deported with their families.

"The Polish population is being mercilessly hunted off the soil whereon it has been fixed for centuries.

"Human life has become nothing but a plaything for these police-ruffians who only merit the name of butchers."

BATTLE STARTS OVER SENATOR HOLT'S OFFICE

Meteoric Political Career
Of Young Solon To Face
Bitter Test

AFFILIATION ALTERED

Rush Went To Washington As
New Dealer, But Changed
Status Early

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 — Down in West Virginia the voters are getting ready to give their verdict on the meteoric political career of the "hell raiser" of the Senate, Rush D. Holt, the youngest person ever to be elected to that august body.

It is a verdict that will be awaited with interest by political leaders from President Roosevelt on down, for it will be the rejection or approval of Holt's record in the Senate, a record carved out by an independent spirit to say the least.

Most of the seasoned politicians will tell you that Holt, elected as a Roosevelt supporter, has "committed political suicide" by his utter disregard for political precedent and his determination to play the lone wolf. But there are others who are just as insistent that this independence will send him back to the Senate for a second term if he runs for reelection.

Fight Since Election

The answer will come next year when the West Virginia primaries are held, but the battle over Holt has been underway in West Virginia and elsewhere ever since he entered the Senate on June 20, 1935.

Holt may file for reelection as a Democrat, an Independent or he may not choose to run but his political enemies are taking no chances and the fight is at its height today.

In fact the young senator, only 34, realized he had a reelection fight on his hands a few days after the Senate voted 62 to 17 to give him his seat. His defeated opponent, former Senator Henry D. Hatfield, charged that Holt, elected to take his seat because the constitutional age limit for the Senate is 30.

The late Senator Robinson, (D) of Arkansas, majority leader, and other party stalwarts who fought to seat Holt, smiled with satisfaction when the "freshman senator" made his maiden speech in the Senate for the holding company bill two weeks after he was seated.

Denounced WPA

But soon afterwards it was a different story, and these same senators squirmed in their seats every time young Holt, who came to the Senate as an "administration supporter," turned his speaking talents against some "favorite" legislative program.

Holt's real break with the Administration came in February 1936, when one day he arose in the Senate and denounced the WPA as "corrupt and full of political graft."

Robinson and other Senate Democratic leaders tried to dissuade Holt from making the speech but his independence came to the forefront. He ignored the warning that he was committing "political suicide." This fight has gone on for years and is still underway.

Some of the proposals for "WPA reform" first mentioned by Holt have been adopted since his initial blast. They include a restriction on the amount of money for WPA administration and publication of administrative salaries, to begin next year.

Another departure from political precedent was Holt's filibuster in the Senate that killed the second coal control act backed by the 100,000 union miners in his state almost to a man.

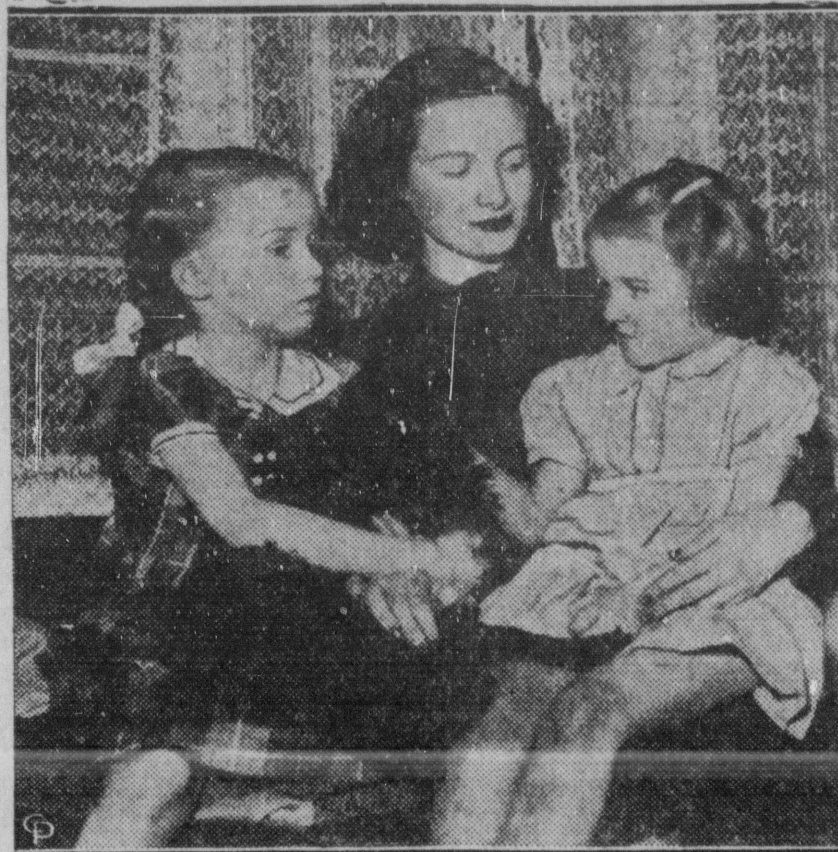

Lewis a Foe

The coal act was finally passed the next year, and although the Bituminous Coal Commission has since been disbanded by the President, John L. Lewis, head of the CIO and the United Mine Workers, will never forget Holt's filibuster. He is out to get Holt if he runs for reelection.

Holt, who has been stripped of his patronage privileges for "giving aid and comfort to the enemy," also opposed repeal of the mandatory arms embargo and the President's ill-fated supreme court enlargement program.

"But his 'for' record, in addition to the holding company bill, includes such liberal measures as the National Labor Relations Act, the housing program, prevailing wage amendment to relief bills and the railroad retirement bill.

Her Daughters Threatened

PENNSYLVANIA state police have arrested two youthful extortionists in connection with threats made to Mrs. Janet Lindsay, above, daughter of the president of a meter company. The extortion notes received by Mrs. Lindsay threatened her three daughters, two of whom are shown. The two accused were traced by the note paper on which they wrote their demands.

Jesus Proclaims His Messiahship

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Jan. 28 is Matthew 21:1-16, the Golden Text being Matt. 21:5, "Behold thy King cometh unto thee.")

OUR LESSON today tells us of the only time Christ appeared in triumphal guise before the multitudes of the City of David—Jerusalem. He had spent a day and evening in the home of Mary, Martha and Lazarus, his good friends, in Bethany, a quiet place not far from Jerusalem, where He could be with those who loved Him and whom He loved. Bethany was just over the top of the Mount of Olives, on the eastern slope, we are told, out of sight of Jerusalem.

Next day they started for Jerusalem, and came to Bethphage, a small village. Jesus called two of His disciples and said unto them: "Go into the village that is over against you, and straightway ye shall find an ass tied, and a colt with her, loose them, and bring them unto me. And if any one say unto you, ye shall say, The Lord hath need of them; and straightway he will send them."

Did as They Were Told

The two disciples did as they were bid, having faith in Jesus. They found the ass as He said, and the colt, brought them to the Master, and taking off the upper garments, they laid them upon the animals. Jesus mounted and led the way into Jerusalem. The multitudes followed, casting their garments in His pathway, and others cutting palm leaves from the trees and strewing them also in His way. As the triumphal procession neared Jerusalem, the people cried, "Hosanna to the son of David; Blessed is He that cometh in the name of the Lord; Hosanna in the highest!" Other multitudes came from the city asking excitedly, "Who is this?" And the others cried, "This is the prophet Jesus, from Nazareth in Galilee."

Jesus rode to the temple, and when He reached there He found money changers, changing the Roman coins for old Jewish coins with which the people would pay their sacred tax, and sellers of doves. These money changers changed the money at a profit to themselves. The doves that were being sold were offerings of the poor. Jesus was angry at this desecration of the holy place, and cast them all out, overthrowing the tables of the money changers and the seats of those who sold doves, and saying: "It is written, My house shall be called a house of prayer; but ye make it a den of robbers."

Heals Blind and Lame

"And the blind and lame came to Him in the temple," says Matthew, and He, forgetting His wrath and filled with compassion, healed them.

The chief priests and the scribes saw these wonderful things and heard the children crying in the temple, "Hosanna to the son of David," and were very indignant. "Hearst thou what these are saying?" they asked. Jesus answered them: "Yea; did ye never read, Out of the mouth of babes and sucklings thou hast perfected praise?"

The chief priests and scribes were supposed to know the laws and sayings by heart, to constantly be reading them, so it was a rebuke when Jesus asked them if they had not read this saying. It told them that they professed to know the word of the law, but not the spirit of it. Then Jesus left the temple.

These events took place only a week before Jesus' trial and crucifixion. He had reminded His disciples of what was to come, you remember, in last week's lesson. But he could not make them understand. In the ways related in this lesson He proclaims His Messiahship: "Behold, thy King cometh unto thee."

TO CIVIC-MINDED

FOLK: It has become an established fact that Circleville possesses one of the finest high school bands in Central Ohio, but it is another fact that the uniforms this organization is forced to wear are not fit to be seen on the streets of our city nor of any other for that fact. It has been nine years since the band was equipped with new uniforms, the late Tom F. Jeffries being the instigator of a $500 contribution by the Pumpkin Show society. These uniforms have long since served their purpose, and it is hoped that when the band next makes an appearance that neat, new suits will be worn. I was very pleased to learn that a committee has been organized and has set the week of February 26 for an intensive campaign which, it is hoped, will bring enough money to buy 50 new uniforms. Individual contributions and money from various civic and social organizations will be sought, several functions will be attempted with all proceeds to go to the band suits, and a basketball game may be played. (A game between Pickaway Township, undefeated so far this year, and Circleville High would attract a record crowd.) All members of the committee seeking money for band uniforms have pledged themselves to do everything possible to raise enough money for the uniform purchase. The Auxiliary of Howard Hall Post American Legion has put $100 into the fund and several other organizations have money put away that has been earmarked for band uniforms. The Stogie Club's annual dinner and the Girl Reserve's dance will provide some money for the band. Circleville's band SHOULD be decked in new suits. The youngsters who perform having been donating much time and effort to entertain music lovers of Circleville and other cities, and they have received nothing for it except the enjoyment of knowing that they have done a good job. Prof. C. F. Zaenglein, the untiring director of the school's musical organizations, deserves much praise for his work, and it would be a real tribute to him to provide suits for his youngsters. All of us should get behind the band uniform campaign.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

GOSSIP OF a contemplated attempt at a Trotsky coup in Russia leaks out from the circle of Muscovite exiles in Washington.

The theory is that Comrade Stalin must have lost so much in prestige as a result of his forces' poor showing in Finland that there should be a good chance to overthrow him. In fact, the Washington exiles say they have definite information to that effect. It may be that the reliability of their news is not quite on a par with the extreme wishfulness of their thinking. Nevertheless, there's pretty good evidence that Russians in this country are in communication with Trotsky, in Mexico City, relatives to the possibilities of enlisting him as head of a movement to seize control of the Moscow government.

The exiled Russians in Uncle Sam's capital are quite a colony. It includes a few old-time carlists, but they don't signify; nobody imagines that there'll be a reversion to another era of the Romanoffs.

After the czars there followed in Russia a decidedly radical sort of a republic dominated by Alexander Kerensky, today a refugee in the United States. There are some Kerensky-ites, besides Alexander, in America, but no Kerensky comeback is suggested. Russians who know him speak of Alexander as able but temperamentally unequal to dealing with such conditions as prevail in their homeland.

Kerensky was followed by Vladimir Lenin, a sure-enough Communist. Leon Trotsky (his real name is Bronstein) was his right-hand man. Indeed, he was about as prominent as Vladimir was.

TROTSKY IN EXILE

But presently Lenin died. Trotsky was the logical individual to succeed him, but somehow Josef Stalin horned in ahead. Trotsky was radical enough, heaven knows, but Joe was even more so, and I suppose Russia was ripe for the maximum limit at that particular juncture.

Trotsky immediately lost most of his authority. Shortly he was banished to Siberia. Probably Stalin was suspicious of him; maybe with justification. It's a safe bet that Leon was sore, and it's imaginable that he did some plotting.

He escaped from Siberia, however. That was when he changed his name from Bronstein to Trotsky.

Subsequently we trace him to Geneva, Madrid, London, to the vicinity of Istanbul, Turkey, to New York and finally to Mexico City, his present place of refuge. Recently Representative Martin Dies tried to get him to come from Mexico to the United States, as a witness before Martin's congressional investigation of Communist activities in the Americas. Upon mature consideration Leon didn't come. Perhaps he thinks he sees a better chance to raise hedges for Stalin in a different way.

It appears that Joe's compact with Hitler annoyed many Russian reds, Communism and Nazi-ism being antagonistic philosophies.

est in the annual President's Birthday Ball and card party for the benefit of persons afflicted with infantile paralysis, and from all indications the events to be staged in Circleville will be well patronized. They should be. An excellent orchestra has been obtained to provide music for the evening, dress is optional, and a gala time should be planned by all. The card party that usually attracts many persons promises to again be interesting. Funds from the two functions go to an excellent cause. Williamsport is to be congratulated for having a Birthday Ball of its own with the proceeds from the village's undertaking to be added to the Circleville total. I wish that several other communities had been able to attempt dances and card parties for the benefit of the infantile paralysis fund.

TO CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

BUSINESSMEN: The annual meeting of your organization next week should attract 100 percent attendance because the meeting is of importance. During the evening the new directorate will be announced, and plans for the year will be outlined. The Chamber of Commerce is starting into a year that should be an outstanding one in its history, with a definite annual program drafted. There isn't any reason why the Chamber of Commerce in Circleville should not attract memberships from every business house in the community and from every business and professional man, because without an active Chamber of Commerce they would suffer just as much as would business. The annual meeting is something that should be looked forward to by all members. The secretary's report of the year's activities will be heard and accomplishments of the organization will be noted. You should be present.

CIRCUITEER.

TO ROTARY CLUB

MEMBERS: The first number of your series of institutes on international questions was presented during the last week, and it proved to be excellent and enlightening entertainment. But what I cannot understand is that more persons were not present to enjoy the splendid address. Any undertaking worth sponsoring is worth attending, and I hope to see many more Rotarians and their families present at the next program. The speaker who appeared at the High School did a splendid job and all who heard him went away very pleased that they had taken time to go to the school even though the weather was far from agreeable. Let's give the lecturer a larger crowd next week.

CIRCUITEER.

TO SERVICE DEPARTMENT

WORKERS: I was rather peeved the other morning to start to work only to find the sidewalks and streets still piled with untouched snow. I thought the plows should have been going early in the day. But that is neither here nor there now, what I want to say is that I'm pleased that crews of workmen have been going up and down the streets shoveling snow and cleaning up our main thoroughfares, thus eliminating a traffic hazard. This work is appreciated by persons who are forced to park their cars in the business district.

DIET AND HEALTH

Great Winter Diseases are Respiratory

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE four great winter diseases are respiratory infections—(1) the common cold, (2) influenza, (3) chronic sinus and ear infection, and (4) pneumonia.

The peak incidence of the common cold during the year is February 1. So about this time of year

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

the departments of public health and pharmaceutical houses publish announcements, the burden of which is "Avoid the common cold."

As a corollary to this, they usually deplore the vast economic waste entailed by the common cold—the number of working days lost.

Wishful Thinking

This column has always felt that a great deal of what is said on the subject is wishful thinking, and while it very properly tries to give aid and comfort to the defending armies, there is very little advice that is practical because very little of it, if followed out, results in any positive benefit.

It is very much like deploring the necessity of having the hair cut. That also involves a great deal of economic waste. I suppose this very day there are at least five million hours of working life being lost by the male population of this country because they are having their hair cut. Conservatively, in one year, time is consumed which would represent ten million entire lifetimes, simply by having our hair cut. As for the dollars and cents involved, I saw a statement recently that the value of all the United States interests in China is only two-thirds of the value of the United States domestic barber business.

But nobody wails about the economic waste of hair cuts for the very good and sufficient reason that there is nothing to be done about it.

Same Way About Cold

I feel exactly the same way about the common cold. To some of my nose and throat colleagues, who object to my iconoclastic views about cold vaccines, I have said that I could put everything that is positively known about the common cold in a short paragraph. They have challenged me to do so, and here it is:

The common cold is an infection of the mucous membrane of the nose, throat and bronchial tubes. It is, to a certain extent, contagious. It is caused not by a germ, but by a virus. Secondary infection with germs is planted on top of the virus inflammation and prolongs the period of convalescence. It is accompanied by a slight fever, slight prostration, headache and muscle aches. It has no serious complications or sequelae. It is definitely associated with cold weather. The incidence is highest in those under four years old and drops to almost nothing after the age of 46, which indicates that in the course of time immunity is established. Cures are invented and believed in largely by people over 45 who do not realize that their immunity is not due to the treatment but to their age. Colds cannot be prevented by any vaccine, dietary measure or exercise. Avoidance of exposure helps to prevent. There is no method of treatment known that gives rapid relief. Bed rest is the best treatment. The only medicine known which gives relief is codeine. Codeine can be prescribed only by a physician.

Tomorrow I will put in a few paragraphs the things we don't know about a cold.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

L. B.: "Will bad tonsils and adenoids keep a child from learning? This boy has had bad adenoids and tonsils. He has gone to school one term but does not learn anything."

Answer: Yes, because they interfere with hearing. Also, they affect the general health.

J. D. M.: "Are there any harmful results in taking baking soda frequently to relieve acid stomach?"

Answer: It is sometimes reported that too much soda causes alkalosis, but it must occur very seldom. For practical purposes it is safe to take enough to get relief.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

CHOLLY O'NEIL, her pal, who plays in a music store.
BRENT NELSON, successful young announcer, who falls in love with Romany.
DOVER HAYWORTH, wealthy colon, who is growing fond of Cholli.
MYRA NOYES, famous radio star, who thought she was in love with Brent.
TERRY O'ROURKE, who has a weakness for liquor.
BAXTER TREE, a continuity writer without a job.
YESTERDAY: Romany is about to make her radio debut.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

ROMANY'S hardest task was getting up in the morning. But she forced herself out of bed at six the next day to make certain she would be in the studio at Interstate before eight. She would have been there just as cheerfully at five. Her first dramatic part. Dreams coming true at last!

She was surprised to find Brent waiting in the hall near Studio 3. He grinned, taking her hand.

"Early, I see. Excited?"

"Terribly," Romany sighed happily. "I don't know how to thank you."

"You don't have to." The announcer decided any girl who could look like Romany before eight in the morning deserved a medal.

"Come along, I'll introduce you to Trotter. I'm announcing with you."

"Oh, I'm glad!" Romany followed him down the hall. "I won't be so nervous."

Myra Noyes came around the corner from the other end of the hall. She stopped, and Romany realized with chagrin that she and Brent were still holding hands.

Myra's eyes narrowed.

"Well!" Her little mouth hardened and curled sarcastically. "You two must have spent the night together to be getting in so early."

Romany felt Brent stiffen beside her. She was too surprised to find her tongue. Nelson measured his fiancée with cold blue eyes, then took Romany's arm.

"Come along, dear, I'll talk with her later."

Blind with fury, Myra followed them into the studio. She stumbled in and sat down, fighting her anger. Romany was a little pale when Brent took her into the control room to meet Trotter. None of the rest of the cast had arrived. Trotter looked up from the script he was reading, and rose quickly when he saw Romany. She observed that the famous radio director was small and dapper and dark, with a little black mustache. He smiled warmly, holding out his hand.

"You must be Brent's great discovery."

"This is Romany Haile, in person," Brent grinned. "Miss Haile, may I present Mr. Trotter, the best director in radio."

Romany found it hard to smile, after her encounter with Myra. But she managed to hide her emotions. Hal told Nelson:

"Myra is cast into the show today. New lead the author decided to throw in for confusion. Oh, I see Myra's in the studio. I'll—"

"Never mind calling her just yet," Brent spoke up quickly. "She and I have just had one of our little tiffs."

The director pursed his lips.

"Oh, I get it," he grinned. "Well, I'll have to admit she wouldn't be human if she could stand this competition without a struggle."

Romany's sun-tanned cheeks colored, but she maintained a dignified silence.

"You guessed it," Brent said shortly. "But she's going a little too far. Tripping over her tongue."

Hal Trotter decided it was best to say no more. Obviously, Miss Haile was embarrassed, and too much of a lady to comment. He handed Romany a script.

"Have you ever read a commercial?" he asked them.

"A—commercial announcement?" Romany's face fell. "No, no, I haven't."

Nelson, sensing her disappointment and shock, smiled encouragement.

"Good way to cut your eye teeth. Eighteen bucks for about fifty words. Not bad."

"I—I'll try to do it," Romany tried to hide her confusion.

But glancing at the announcement she felt a sinking sensation in the pit of her stomach. A hard working scribe in the continuity department had written passionately of his product. Romany read slowly, under her breath:

"When I found Mrs. Laurel's Soap Flakes, it was like pennies from heaven. Believe you me, when my clothes hang on the line over the cool wet grass I'm proud as a peacock. I always hope the neighbors are looking at my snow white pillow slips, sheets and towels. Mrs. Laurel's Soap Flakes make washday the most pleasant day of the week. I look forward to it. Mrs. Laurel's suds are such fun!"

It didn't make sense. Soap flakes, pennies from heaven! Washday the most pleasant day in the week! That anybody should look forward to it! Soap suds such fun.

Trotter, sensing her feelings in the matter, grinned.

"Makes you feel like getting a job writing commercials, rather than reading them, doesn't it? But that's sweet music to the sponsor who pays the bills."

"I suppose so," Romany sighed.

"But I wonder what the women think about it."

Trotter laughed.

"Oh, they eat it up. They're not looking for art in their wash tubs. Most of 'em don't know the difference."

Romany disagreed with him, but kept silent.

"If you'll go into the studio, we'll try it," Trotter told Nelson and Romany. "Start from your announcement, Brent, and work with Miss Haile."

"Okay. Come along, dramatic actress," Brent grinned.

Outside the door in the little hall he squeezed her hand.

"Keep the chin up, darling," he smiled encouragement. "Don't let Myra have the satisfaction of seeing she can embarrass or hurt you."

Because poise and dignity are what she knows she doesn't possess."

"All right," Romany squared her shoulders. "I'm deaf, and too indifferent to answer her back."

"That'll burn her to a crisp," Brent smiled, patting her on the shoulder. "Heads up now, beautiful."

Neither Myra nor Trotter was unaware of the long pause in the corridor. Brent opened the door and Romany, her head high and looking as regal as a princess in Aunt Cissie's close-fitting gray silk suit, sailed to the mike.

"When Trotter raises his hand after my announcement, begin yours," Brent instructed Romany.

Brent was saying:

"And now we bring you Mrs. James Brown of Duville, Illinois, an enthusiastic user of Mrs. Laurel's Soap Flakes. She says:

"Trotter signaled and Romany began in her most beautifully modulated voice. After a few words, the director broke in from the control room."

"Just a minute, Miss Haile. Can you make your voice sound as if you were Mrs. Brown? Just another little housewife looking forward to washday and those lovely soap flakes. Try, won't you?"

Romany felt weak in the knees. All the rest of the cast had arrived, and Myra was looking up from her script, smiling triumphantly.

Cautiously cool, but inwardly feeling as though her head had turned to water, Romany struggled with her few words for fifteen minutes before she read them as Trotter thought they should be read.

Finally he grinned:

"Okay, kitchen wench. That does it."

Myra was next. At the microphone she said furiously:

"Do I have to sit here all morning while amateurs learn to read lines? This is going to be just too ducky."

Trotter was small, and the best-natured director at Interstate, but he would not stand for impertinence. He answered her coldly:

"Perhaps we should have switched parts. I'm sure Miss Haile would have no difficulty reading yours. You've been in radio long enough to know that it's harder to read commercials than anything else. Now, let's proceed, and if anyone has any complaints to make about the way I run things they had better not make them aloud."

Myra paled. Her hands trembled, holding the script. Brent smiled to himself, and Romany felt much better. The rest of the cast had abandoned the study of their own scripts to watch the drama. There wasn't a person in the room who wasn't in sympathy with Romany, and delighted that for once Myra had been put in her place. And they were all curious as to who the lovely newcomer might be.

During the broadcast Romany read the announcement as she had been directed. She looked up at the end, and Trotter nodded encouragement. Later, when she apologized for her slowness during rehearsals, he smiled, shaking hands:

"Think nothing of it. I'll throw as many commercials your way as I can until I find a part or two you can do."

Wishing openly to punish Myra for her childishness, Brent took Romany downstairs to breakfast.

Business Women Enjoy Discussion Of Ireland

Teacher Speaks Of Summer Journey Over Ocean

Miss Eleanor Ryan was speaker at the Thursday meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club telling many interesting features of her summer trip to Ireland. Miss Ryan in opening her talk gave an interesting historical sketch of this always interesting island. She then described her visits to the many beautiful lakes, castles and towns and told many interesting legends in connection with them. At the close of her formal talk, Miss Ryan answered many inquiries of the club members concerning the people and places visited.

The place of meeting will be announced later by the social committee which includes Mrs. H. B. Given, Mrs. F. E. Barnhill, Mrs. William Fitzpatrick and Mrs. Harry Stevenson.

Mistletoe Ball Nets $175 Check

As an aftermath of the recent successful Mistletoe Charity Ball, the general committee has turned over to the Circleville Benevolent Association a check for $175, the largest sum earned for charity at any one of the 11 annual balls.

By far the largest number of dancers enjoyed the ball in Memorial Hall December 26, 1939, which was arranged under the leadership of Mrs. John Blosser, chairman of the committee. Assisting her in the plans for the brilliant holiday affair were Mrs. Donald H. Watt, Mrs. Joseph W. Adkins, Jr., Mrs. Robert Smith, Mrs. Paul Adkins, Mrs. William Radcliff, Mrs. Howard White, Miss Eleanor Snyder, Miss Mary Newmyer and Miss Mary Hays.

The members of the committee serve without recompense, no member having profited financially at any time through her association with the Mistletoe Charity Ball. Each year greater efforts are put forth for this social function which has come to be counted as one of the outstanding events of the winter season.

During the 11 years of its existence, 17 persons have been connected with the general committee. This year the name of Miss Snyder was added to the list.

Not only to the energetic committee members who give of their valuable time during the busy holiday season but to the guests who join in making it the social and financial success go the orchids for the annual contribution to charity.

Mrs. Fred Garrett of Saltcreek Township was a Thursday shopper in Circleville.

RED AND BLACK READY TO MEET HILLSBORO TEAM

Indians Come To City For League Contest With Fast Local Quintet

PRELIM BEGINS AT 7:30

Black To Depend On Usual Five To Bring Fourth Victory In Row

Circleville High Tigers take the boards at the Athletic Club gymnasium, at 8:30 o'clock this evening in quest of their fourth consecutive victory with Hillsboro's capable Indians as their opponents. The Tigers after losing by a single point to Berne Union have knocked off Clarksburg, Hilliards and Ashville in a row. A victory over Hillsboro would make the season's record seven victories and six defeats.

Hillsboro is fast and strong, Grabbil, the center, being the team's biggest scoring threat. Just what kind of an attack and defense will be used by the invaders is not certain, but if scouting efforts have anything to do with it Hillsboro will be ready. Coach Anderson has scouted the Tigers on at least three occasions.

Coach Roy Black intends to stick with his usual starting lineup of Davis, Smith, Walters, Staley and Bowsher with Callahan and Martin as certain replacements. The coach has not decided what other three boys he will save to don vars

RIVER FERRY HALTED

Bay Bridge At Sandusky Remains Closed With Drifts Prevalent

Sub-zero temperatures were recorded again Friday as weather forecasters predicted the latest frigid wave would remain until Sunday. Circleville's low temperature was five degrees below zero.

At Columbus at 6:30 a. m., a reading of 3 below was made. At the same time, the thermometer stood at four below at Dayton. At Hayesville, in Ashland County, it was one below and at Cincinnati two below.

Plus readings were recorded at Cleveland, with four above; at Akron, three above; at East Liverpool, three above; and at Cambridge, two above. At Toledo, the mercury was five above the zero mark.

The state Highway department reported roads throughout the state were generally slippery in spots but remained open. The Sandusky Bay Bridge remained closed to traffic because of heavy snowdrifts.

The Portsmouth bridge across the Ohio River was also reported closed and ferry service there was discontinued.

The highway department said temperatures in the state ranged from six below to 12 above.

Light snow was reported in the Cleveland area and around New Philadelphia and East Liverpool. Eight inches of snow fell in the Painesville area, the highway patrol reported.

ESHELMAN'S NEW DOG FOOD GOES ON THE MARKET

Eselman's new canned Red Rose dog and puppy food made its appearance in Circleville and Pickaway County stores this week.

The new product, packed with all the ingredients of a balanced and healthful canine diet, has the outstanding feature of being canned with fresh pasteurized milk.

John W. Eselman & Sons, manufacturers of a wide variety of animal foods since over 20 years, offer in their new canned dog food a product that assures good health to pets, resistance to disease and sleekness of coat.

Dog owners have welcomed the new canned food as a perfectly balanced ration at a reasonable price. Pickaway County farmers look to the new product as an additional outlet for their milk production.

Rotarians Hear Address On Benefits Of C. of C.

I. W. Kinsey, owner of Kinsey's Men's Shop, fired the opening gun for the Chamber of Commerce's 1940 program when he addressed the Rotary Club meeting Thursday noon.

"I honestly believe that the gateway of Circleville is wide open for a business expansion. I know of no other town that holds the opportunities that Circleville does," Mr. Kinsey said. "This will be a good year if we decide to make it so. If we get organized with a determination to go and win then we will have a successful Chamber of Commerce that can be proud of itself."

A broad appeal followed in which Mr. Kinsey addressed his remarks to all the businessmen of the city asking for cooperation and membership. What results of such a program will be if carried out were outlined by him.

"If the 1940 program is carried out, Circleville will continue to go ahead, build up Circleville, better the living and housing conditions, increase the trading territory encourage the local stores to broaden their stocks, expand our local market so that more money can be kept at home. But this cannot be accomplished without your help," he said.

At this point he showed specifically what the city had to offer in

CLIFTON FOUND INNOCENT AFTER COURT HEARING

COLUMBUS, Jan. 26 — James S. Clifton, suspended Franklin County relief director, stood acquitted today of a charge of embezzling $456.44 of county funds. He was found not guilty by a Common Pleas court jury of seven men and five women late yesterday.

The jury took four hours and 10 minutes to deliberate on the testimony, during which time a number of ballots were taken. At one time, the jury was reported to have stood 8 to 4 for acquittal.

Clifton contended he used the money, which the prosecution charged he embezzled, for petty cash to purchase supplies and take care of non-resident and other relief cases at relief headquarters.

Rufus and Della Ebert Karshner. The funeral will be Saturday at 2 p. m. at the home, the Rev. Harold Duff officiating, with burial in Green Summit Cemetery, Adelphi, by H. E. Defenbaugh and Son.

All Types of Farming About Equal in State

COLUMBUS, Jan. 26 — An Ohio farmer can select the type of farming preferred by himself and be assured he will fare about the same economically as if he selected another type not so well liked, provided he does not try to produce things unsuited to his locality.

Rural economists at Ohio State University have compared the receipts from grain farming, sow-sow-hen farms, dairy-hog, general livestock, and corn-hog farms in western Ohio for the period 1934-38. The average labor income per acre per year for the different types in the order listed was $9.96, $11.17, $9.65, $9.35 and $13.17.

One argument in favor of selecting enterprises to suit preferences is that the study shows farmers usually obtained better results with their favorite projects than did neighbors who used these enterprises as sidelines. The livestock man got along better with sheep and beef cattle, the dairy farmer got higher production from his cows, and hens laid the most eggs on poultry farms.

Milk sales per cow were $10 higher on the dairy farm than on any of the other types. Egg sales per hen were $2.25 on the poultry farm and were only $1.54 per hen on the dairy-hog farm. Corn yields per acre, however, were higher on every other type of farm than on the grain farms. Oats and wheat yielded better on the grain farms than on three of the other types.

Farm income is quite dependent upon the size of the farm, up to a certain point. The farm must be large enough to permit the economical use of the owner's labor and of the equipment and buildings. All types of farming have their ups and downs but one is as profitable as the other over a period of years for the competent operator.
